

P³S Corporation president receives prestigious ATHENA Award

San Antonio North Chamber honors local entrepreneurial leader

SAN ANTONIO, Texas – The president of local federal contracting company P³S Corporation was ushered into a pantheon of San Antonio’s brightest young professionals in an award ceremony recently.

Mary Ellen Trevino received the coveted ATHENA Young Professionals’ Award Jun. 23 courtesy of the San Antonio North Chamber of Commerce and the San Antonio Water System (SAWS).

The ATHENA Young Professionals’ Award is a local honor which is bestowed annually upon professional women who strive toward the highest levels of personal and professional accomplishment, who excel in the chosen field, devote time and energy to their community, and serve as a role model for young men and women. Candidates were nominated by their peers and vetted by a nominating committee. Only women ages 25 to 40 were eligible. The award was presented by Duane Wilson, president and CEO of the North Chamber. Upon accepting the award, Michael Valdes, San Antonio news personality and master of ceremonies for the afternoon, yielded the podium to Trevino.

Trevino remarked that only through the hard work of each and every P³S team member could she ever have had the chance to accept the ATHENA Award.

“From day one our mantra was, ‘hire the best, retain the best,’” she said. “P³S Corporation has the best, the strongest, and the hardest-working team of top-quality professionals I could ever hope to work with.”

Trevino also thanked her family, her husband and P³S Corporation chief operating officer Sam Trevino, and her mother, 77-year-old Emilia Londrie. Trevino credited Londrie, a native of Mexico, with making receipt of the ATHENA Award possible through her support. While her father suffered from repeated strokes when she was a little girl, Trevino helped her mother care for him and for their home. Through difficult circumstances but with the love of her mother, Trevino said she is proud to be leading P³S Corporation into its fourth year of continued success.

“Mamacita, muchas gracias para su amor y su ayuda,” she said to her mother in Spanish. Ísin usted, esto no es posible.”
